County hires mental health director

County supervisors on Monday approved appointment of Dr. Norbert J. McNamara as the new county mental health director, at a salary of $28,032 per year.

Dr. McNamara, who has been with the U.S. Public Health Service and who aided in setting up San Mateo County's mental health program some years ago, accepted the post during a telephone call by Administrative Officer Raymond D. Johnson.

Among those who had been pushing county efforts to have the post filled was Supervisor Curtis Tunnell, of Santa Maria. Tunnell said he has been receiving calls from many concerned persons in his area that the county program was suffering.

Johnson, who has been working extremely hard to fill the position in the past few months, said Dr. McNamara is hoping to report not later than August 1 and may come before then. The position has been vacant since late last year.

In line with other counties, Santa Barbara County will expand its mental health program effective July 1 in line with the state program. The state has released many cases from state institutions and they are being cared for in their own localities thus adding considerably to the county's outside clinic program.

Dr. McNamara will be the highest paid county employee under the $28,032 annual salary granted him.

Johnson also told the board the county is endeavoring to fill four vacant clinical psychologist positions in the county. He recommended against recruitment of psychologists on a part-time basis, feeling that the higher pay needed would hurt the overall county pay structure.

The higher salary scheduled for clinical psychologists now runs up to $1,239 per month.

Dedication of new city park planned

Realizing a promise that the new Ed Ingram Park would be completed before Flower Festival, the Parks and Recreation Commission declared last night that dedication ceremonies signifying the official opening are set for Thursday, June 26 at 2 p.m.

Participating in the official opening will be dignitaries from the city, Vandenberg AFB, Martin-Marietta and the adjacent Greco Plant, along with others responsible for the formation and completion of the park.

Mayor Robert MacClure will deliver the introduction. Unveiling the memorial plaque to her late husband will be Mrs. Ed Ingram.

Included in the park facilities, which is at the junction of Highways 1 and 246 at the east entrance of town, is an eight-space parking lot, a pergola displaying municipal history and community service clubs and a Titan missile.

In other action, the Commission reported only one case of vandalism during the last 30 days; a door ripped off the concession stand at J-M Park. Initial cost of repairs was estimated at between $40-$45 for a new lock and door.

Extension of taxes now seems certain

Most troops leaving war front not coming home

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Nearly 16,000 of the first 25,000 U.S. troops to be pulled out of Vietnam will remain in the Far East or Hawaii, it was disclosed today.

The Pentagon said 8,000 Marines — the 9th regiment of the 3rd Marine Division — were ticketed for Okinawa; the 7,400-man 1st Brigade of the Army's 9th Infantry Division will go to Hawaii, and about 400 Marines from the 3rd Division's fighter support wing will be sent to Iwakuni, Japan.

With 1,200 Navy men scheduled to board ships in the withdrawal, the announcement left only 8,000 Army troops definitely slated for return to the continental United States.

The 8,000 will include 2,000 Army reservists and National Guardsmen, and the 2nd Brigade of the 9th Infantry and its supporting units.

The announcement, made in both Washington and in Saigon, revealed for the first time that only the 2nd Brigade of the 9th division would be inactivated.

The 1st Brigade will remain intact and will establish division headquarters in Hawaii.

Members of 2nd Brigade will be assigned to other units. The Pentagon said the location for the inactivation has not yet been selected.

Only one of the units to be returned to the United States and inactivated is from the Far West. It is the 737th Transportation Co., of Yakima, Wash.

Control of Assembly prize for election winner in Salinas

SALINAS, Calif. (UPI) — Democrats pinned their banner to a former State Senator and Republicans rode the popularity of a County Supervisor into a special election today to determine political control of the Assembly.

A Democratic victory would knot the lower house in a 40-40 deadlock and pose a potential threat to Gov. Ronald Reagan's "creative society" programs. It takes 41 votes to pass most legislation.

A win by Republicans would give the GOP 24-39 edge and the working majority necessary to pass the Governor's proposals.

Communist summit adjourns; plan larger future meeting

MOSCOW (UPI) — Leaders of world communism today adjourned their first summit meeting in nearly 10 years and called for a new and bigger conference to include both Communists and "all anti-imperialist forces" even though they be non-Communists. Sergei Lapin, director-general of the Soviet news agency Tass, said 13 delegates to the summit have been named to make plans for a new meeting.

He said it could be years away. Such a summit would include Communists and non-Communist left-wing groups as long as they are pledged to fight imperialism.

The summit adjourned with an overwhelming majority of the delegation signing an official declaration of "tasks of the struggle against imperialism."

Only Dominican Republic delegates refused to endorse any of it, insisting it was "too mild." The rest of the delegations signed the entire document or parts of it or said they would refer the matter to their central committees at home.

The 13-day meeting ended without the official condemnation of Communist China the Soviets had wanted.

"You gentlemen of the capitalist press will be disappointed to see how united we are," said R. Arismendi, leader

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The House Ways and Means Committee voted today to repeal the 7 per cent tax credit for business investments, as asked by President Nixon, and drove toward approval of an extension of the income tax surcharge.

The taxwriters also approved a one year extension of federal excise taxes of 10 per cent on telephone calls 7 per cent on automobiles which normally would drop to 5 per cent next Jan. 1.

The panel planned to approve an extension of the surtax later in the day. The acting ways and means Chairman Rep. Hale Boggs, D-La., said there was "no doubt about it."

During a morning session, the committee voted a repeal of the investment tax credit effective April 20, 1969, without any exceptions for Small Business, transportation or air and water pollution equipment — as some congressmen wanted.

The tax credit, first imposed in 1962 to stimulate the economy, acts as a $3 billion annual subsidy for business investment by allowing firms to write from taxes $7 for every $100 they spend for new equipment.

Republican congressional leaders said after a two-hour meeting with Nixon this morning that the chief executive would balk at any further compromise to win approval of his tax package.

House GOP leader Gerald H. Ford told newsmen after the strategy conference that Nixon intended to stand firm on his proposals to continue the surcharge, exempt about 5 million poor taxpayers from paying federal income taxes and to end the 7 per cent tax credit for business investments.

"The President feels there should be no compromise beyond the three-pronged bill he proposed," Ford said. "A temporary or a limited extension would just add fire to the situation now regarding inflation."

Both Ford and Senate Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen predicted Congress would approve the extension before the June 30 deadline.

"It would be catastrophic in my opinion if this tax bill were not approved," Ford said. "The economic consequences would be almost unbelievable."

Americans caught in artillery duel in Near East; one killed

By United Press International
A 25-year-old American woman tourist and an Israeli civilian were killed today and four other persons including an American were wounded when they were caught in an artillery and mortar duel between Israeli and Jordanian forces near the Dead Sea. She was the first tourist to be killed in the border warfare.

The American woman killed was identified as Shirley Anderson of Rochester, N.Y., daughter of Gordon Anderson, a state legislator from Monroe County and an employee of the Eastman Kodak Co., in Rochester. She had been teaching in the former Belgian Congo for several years.

Her companion was identified as a Miss Eileen Bonnett, 27, of California. Miss Bonnett suffered a shrapnel wound in the arm.

The two women had been in Kinshasa, the Congo, where they had been working at the American community school for the past two years and had paused in Israel during a pilgrimage to the Holy Land on their return to the United States.

Also wounded in the attack was a 39-year-old Arab taxi driver who drove the two girls from Jerusalem to the Dead Sea. The women were changing for a swim when a Russian-made 122 millimeter shell slammed into Qalya Beach on the northern shore of the Dead Sea in what is now occupied Jordan.

Shrapnel riddled the cabana in which the two women were changing and set fire to two taxis parked nearby.

Officials said it was the first time a tourist had been killed during Arab-Israeli fighting since the end of the June, 1967 six-day war.

Kalya is only 15 miles from Jerusalem and barely three miles from the Abdullah Bridge spanning the Jordan River.

U.S. tells Soviets it's ready to begin arms limitation talk

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Nixon today called a meeting of the National Security Council for Wednesday to discuss the scope of planned Soviet-American arms control talks. He also scheduled a news conference for 7 p.m. EDT Thursday.

The council meeting was set for 10 a.m. EDT Wednesday. The United States has informed the Russians it will be ready by about the end of July to start talking about strategic arms limitations.

Nixon will have an opportunity to discuss this as well as his drive in Congress for approval of the Safeguard anti-ballistic missile (ABM) system at his Thursday news conference — his first since April 18.

There has been strong opposition in Congress to the ABM but some opponents said they were becoming concerned that attention was being diverted by a more complex aspect of the arms race — the multiple independently targetable re-entry vehicle (MIRV).

Sen. Edward W. Brooke, R-Mass., co-sponsor of a Senate resolution urging a mutual U.S. - Russian freeze on MIRV developments pending arms talks, denied that he had any intention of diverting attention from the ABM.

Nixon's press secretary, Ronald Ziegler, said the United States had been conducting preliminary discussions with its allies concerning strategic arms talks and he expected this consultation to become more intensive in the coming weeks.

Managers of the anti-ABM campaign believe the Pentagon and its allies deliberately delayed a showdown on the ABM issue to slow the antisafeguard momentum, muddy the debate and buy time to win over the public.

Sen. J. William Fulbright, chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, said he may schedule new hearings on the ABM to breathe life into the issue. Fulbright said he would invite Defense Secretary Melvin R. Laird and Secretary of State William P. Rogers back to clear up some new issues they have raised.

Powell undecided whether to seek lost seniority

BIMINI, The Bahamas (UPI) — Rep. Adam Clayton Powell, D-N.Y., buoyed by the Supreme Court ruling that his fellow house members had no right to exclude him, said today he has not yet decided whether to seek the seniority rights he also lost or back pay.

Powell told a news conference at his island retreat here that he planned to return to Washington to discuss the situation with Democratic party leaders.

"I have not yet decided whether I will ask for restoration of the House Committee chairmanship" or the back pay and money paid in fines, Powell said.

Powell was chairman of the powerful House Education and Labor Committee before he was stripped of his seat by fellow congressmen.

Powell sat on a dockside wall in the hot morning sun to explain his plans to newsmen who flew into Bimini especially for his news conference.

He said his ultimate decision "will depend on my conversations with the Democratic party leadership." He said among congressmen he expects to talk with are Wilbur Mills and Hale Boggs.

He said the question of getting his money back "is not important at this moment."

"The main thing about the Supreme Court decision which we established is that the principle of three branches of government has been reaffirmed. It affects not only me but 220 million people."

Pressed as to what he might do if the House leaders refuse to restore his chairmanship, Powell replied: "Well, that's become secondary because I think the fact that we have fought before the Supreme Court to establish the principle of three branches of government is more important than Adam Clayton Powell."

But he added, "You can't have a government in the United States that believes in law and order if the Congress of the United States does not believe in law and order."

Powell, wearing a button-down, short sleeved blue oxford shirt, dark blue Bermuda shorts and sneakers, was flanked by three of his attorneys: Henry Williams, Arthur Kinoy and Herbert Reid.

Monday's 7 to 1 ruling, which also sent to the lower courts the question of Powell's right to back pay, cleared up the last of the legal problems that have beset the Harlem lawmaker since 1960 and that figured heavily in the March 1, 1967, House vote to exclude him.

"We'll never pay it," was the defiant word around the House. Most members argued hotly the Supreme Court had no business considering the case of Powell's 22-month exclusion from the 90th Congress. They said the Constitution gives the House the exclusive right to judge the qualification of members. But the court said the Constitution sets the qualifications for House members and Powell was eligible.

WREXHAM, Wales (UPI) — Henry Sanders offered a free trip to Paris to anyone snatching on the people who snatched his roses.

"I'm prepared to fly the winner to Paris, put him up in the best hotel for a weekend and fly him back," Sanders said after 17 rose bushes worth a total of $72 — disappeared from his front yard.

As many as 10 to 15 more rescue climbers were scheduled to be flown up on the mountain this morning.

CRIME FIGHT—Mayor Terry D. Schunk of Portland, Ore., has called on the federal government to finance an accelerated war on crime by the nation's cities.

"The problem of disorder—whether it is crime or so-called civil disobedience—is one of the grimmest that cities face," Schunk told the U.S. conference of Mayors Monday.

BIG SPLIT—A staff investigator told a Senate subcommittee today that the militant Students for a Democratic Society (SDS) is splintered into seven factions with a group following a pro-Chinese Communist line holding the upper hand.

Philip Manuel testified about the internal problems of SDS on the nation's college campuses after another staff investigator warned that the organization is pushing a doctrine of violent dissent in high schools, factories, city slums and at Army bases.

ROCKY OFF—New York Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller headed for Rio de Janeiro today, having completed a second meeting with President Arthur da Costa e Silva and talks with leaders of the nation's suspended congress.

NERVOUS WAIT—Campus police and fireman at the University of California kept an apprehensive watch early today on Lathrop Hall where an experiment by a chemist student got out of control and threatened to explode.

The fourth, fifth and sixth floors of the building were cordoned off by police late Monday afternoon, but Berkeley fire chief Alfred J. Henson said early today he felt "the material would dissipate."

Three fire units from the Berkeley department left the scene about 12:15 a.m., leaving one unit from the Lawrence Radiation Laboratory outside the science building.

DERBY—The Board of Supervisors said Monday they approve a road department recommendation that a road closure be set up so that Mission Hills Scouts can carry out a soap box derby Saturday, June 21.

The request for the road closure on a portion of Calle Lindero, between Rucker Rd. and Via Lato between 1 p.m. and 4:30 p.m., was originally made by Andrew Sanchez, of Lompoc, on behalf of the Scout troop. Road Commissioner Leland Steward backed the request.

FLOWER POWER—Flower children visited the county supervisors Monday to remind them not to give up on their fight to rid the Santa Barbara Channel of oil drillers.

The three young children and a young woman all carried bouquets of fresh flowers.

The flowers were placed before the supervisors at their morning weekly board session.

James (Bud) Bottoms, a leader in the GOO (Get Oil Out) drive in Santa Barbara, told the supervisors the flower-bearers "represent fair Santa Barbara . . . representing beauty on the South Coast yet unspoiled."

Bottoms thanked the supervisors for their continuing efforts to have oil drilling halted in the Federal and state waters of the channel.

He reminded them that petitions with names of over 100,000 persons in the county against oil drilling in the channel have been forwarded to officials in Washington and Sacramento.

In effect, Bottoms said, he was asking the county officials to continue "your good work."

Supervisor George H. Clyde, meanwhile, informed the supervisors that Monterey County supervisors had taken new action against oil drilling along the coast to back up Santa Barbara's efforts.

APPOINTED—County supervisors confirmed the nomination Monday of Roy Qualey, of Buellton, as a new member of the Solvang Memorial Building Committee.

Qualey will fill the vacancy caused by resignation of Charles Huckaby, of Solvang, who has moved out of the state.

The supervisors approved a recommendation also of Supervisor Daniel G. Grant that Gordon Erickson, of Solvang, become new chairman of the committee.

County pushes war on mosquitoes; Federal government grants funds

County supervisors pushed the war Monday against disease-carrying mosquitoes, assured that Federal aid in the amount of $29,000 will provide extra help.

The supervisors approved a program whereby the county will contract for services of the Goleta Valley Mosquito Abatement District and Carpinteria Valley Pest Control District to have spraying carried out in north and south county areas outside these districts where encephalitis dangers have been emphasized.

The County Health Department is proving as coordinator in the anti-mosquito programs.

Dr. Joseph T. Nardo, county health director, had urged action so the program could be started without delay.

Health Department official Ed Everett told the board that he was concerned about the mosquito problem in various areas of both Santa Maria and Lompoc Valley as well as south coastal areas.

Lindsay, Wagner favored to win nominations in New York contest

NEW YORK (UPI)—New Yorkers choose Republican and Democratic candidates for mayor today, with incumbent John V. Lindsay and former Mayor Robert F. Wagner Jr., generally favored to win the nominations.

Backlash issues and crime in the streets figured largely in the voting, with the Democratic candidacy of Pulitzer-prize winning author Norman Mailer, who wants to turn New York into the 51st state, adding spice.

The balloting starts at 3 p.m. EDT and the polls close at 10 p.m.

The final election will be held Nov. 4.

Candidates for City Council president, controller and a variety of other local offices also are to be chosen, but the mayoral race held the focus of attention.

On the Republican side, the election is a clear-cut contest between liberals represented by incumbent Mayor Lindsay, 47, and conservatives symbolized by state Sen. John J. Marchi, 48.

Marchi, who describes himself as "a hawk with respect to those who trample on the rights of others," focused his campaign on voters who are fed up with crime in the streets, overspending and chiseling in welfare programs.

Similar issues dominated the campaigns of three of the five Democratic contenders-former Mayor Wagner, 59, former Controller Mario A. Proccaccino 57, and Rep. James H. Scheur, 49. Bronx Borough President Herman Badillo, a 39-year-old native of Puerto Rico, preached decentralization of city services and Mailer, 45, has urged conversion of New York City and neighboring counties into the 51st U.S. state.

Wagner and Proccaccino are regarded as the chief Democratic contenders, but Badillo has wide support among racial minorities, youth and liberals. The New York Times and New York Post both backed Lindsay and Badillo. The Daily News did not endorse a candidate.

Board asked not to alter bed tax formula

Don't upset the present county bed tax allocation formula, the county supervisors were urged Monday by both the Lompoc Valley Chamber of Commerce and the Montecito Bed Tax Committee.

Other groups, including Goleta Valley Chamber of Commerce, have written their concern to the supervisors when news came out that county officials feel this is one way they can help avert a county tax boost this year.

Francis H. Beattie, Jr., president of Lompoc Valley Chamber of Commerce, said a cut in allocation to local agencies would "adversely affect the area economy" in Lompoc and environs.

Charles W. Saul, of the Montecito committee, said the channel oil spill and resultant adverse publicity had made it more imperative than ever that sufficient bed tax funds be allowed the committee for advertising purposes to keep the tourists coming.

The supervisors voted to refer the communications to upcoming budget sessions starting July 7. The bed tax will also be discussed at a budget work session by supervisors later this month.

The local bed tax groups will be informed as to the time of budget discussions on the bed tax formula.

Among the survivors is his wife, Margaret, daughters, Dorothy Ann and Lillian Ruth (Ruthie); and a son, Walter C. Prew, Jr.

Firemen want hours reduced

County firemen who now are on a 101-hour weekly duty shift are trying for 84 hours, it was learned today.

The reduction as sought depends on county budget provisions. The final county budget goes before public hearings starting July 7.

Meanwhile, county supervisors agreed with County Administrative Officer Raymond D. Johnson Monday that county opposition to Assembly Bill 492 was necessary.

AB 492, Johnson said, would reduce working hours of local agency firemen to an average of 40 weekly in any calendar year.

Johnson said he felt the firemen's work schedule should be a matter of local determination, not state determination.

The measure is now before the Assembly Committee on Local Government. The county legislative representatives, Sen. Robert Lagomarsino and Assemblyman W. Don MacGillivray will be informed of the supervisors' action.

PHARMACY PHACTS

From ART SMITH

Here in our pharmacy, when we pick up a bottle containing a liquid solution, we'll occasionally see that some of its ingredients have settled to the bottom. The result of this settling is called "sediment." We then shake the bottle vigorously in order to bring all of the solution back to its required consistency. So, when you're taking (or giving) a liquid prescription—or liquid non-prescription medication—it's always best to shake the container whether you see sediment or not in order to be certain you are receiving the best-possible results. Also, you may be interested to know that the word "sediment" comes down to us from the old Latin word "sedere" which meant to sit or settle down.

Supervisors oppose tax collection plan

By TRACY WOOD
SACRAMENTO (UPI)—County supervisors, fearing the Legislature will "get their fingers in our pie," have voted to oppose a statewide collection of property taxes.

But the Supervisors Association Tax Committee Monday endorsed other proposals in a $1 billion tax reform plan devised by a bi-partisan panel of property tax experts.

The supervisors voiced concern a statewide property tax would limit their power. Counties now impose and collect the property tax.

"I just don't want them (the Legislature) to get their fingers in our pie," said Supervisor Joseph Bort of Alameda County. "If the state is going to buy a statewide property tax we may as well close up shop and go home."

The ad hoc tax writing panel had suggested the Assembly Education Committee write a bill imposing a $2.88 statewide property tax to help raise $307 million for school aid.

The $1 billion tax reform plan, now pending before the Assembly Revenue and Taxation Committee, was endorsed by the 12-member supervisors committee with only three audible dissenting votes.

Bagley, R-San Rafael, chairman of the Revenue and Taxation Committee and a member of the tax writing panel, said the proposal was the only tax reform measure which had a chance for passage this session. He asked the supervisors for support.

"No other version is going to pass this year—I guarantee you that," Bagley said.

Most supervisors expressed approval of a provision in the tax reform plan which requires the state to pay the county costs of welfare but leaves administration of welfare programs with the counties.

A few of the county officials were concerned that the state would take over administration of welfare in a few years unless the counties continued to pay part of the welfare costs.

Bagley told the supervisors Assembly Democrats favored the program but first they want a chance to "vent their spleen and their ire on the governor's tax program."

He said he did not want passage of the program to be blocked by the issue of withholding state income payments from regular paychecks. Bagley favors mandatory withholding and Gov. Ronald Reagan opposes it.

The supervisors had previously adopted a resolution supporting withholding.

"I hope we can get out of this hangup—this box," Bagley said. "There has got to be bigger problems, I'm not going to let one aspect hurt the program."

LA street sweeper returned

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—A 10-ton city street sweeper which disappeared 19 months ago returned home aboard a truck Monday bearing the sign: "Aurora, Colorado's contribution to a cleaner Los Angeles."

The $13,000 sweeper, originally painted a bright orange, vanished from the city equipment shop Dec. 5, 1967. Police and FBI agents checked out numerous leads as far away as Mexico without success.

Then last month the sweeper, now painted red, was discovered cleaning the streets of Aurora, 1,193 miles from here. Its existence came to light when the Colorado town ordered a service manual on how to operate it.

The manufacturer checked the serial number and found the sweeper actually belonged to Los Angeles.

The purchasing agent for the Denver suburb said the city bought the sweeper as part of the assets of a Southern California company he acquired. The mystery of how the company got the sweeper has not been cleared up. A meter on the sweeper showed it had been run for 194 hours.

Los Angeles picked up the $500 tab for the trip from Colorado to California.

First lady continues tour following protest

PORTLAND, Ore. (UPI)—Pat Nixon, who kept her cool during a mock "napalm" bombing by anti-Vietnam war protesters, tours day care and braille centers today before flying to Los Angeles.

The First Lady and her married daughter, Julie Eisenhower, were on the second leg of a four-day West Coast safari to spotlight, nationally, local volunteer programs to help the needy.

Before departing at 2:50 p.m., p.d., Mrs. Nixon planned to motor 20 miles to a farming area to visit a day nursery for the children of migratory workers and a Jewish temple where the blind are taught braille by volunteer tutors.

Her journey, which she described at the outset as a 'lighthearted trip' was marred Monday when protesters showed down paper from a top-floor window. The slips read: "If this were napalm, you would be dead."

The confrontation with demonstrators occurred when she arrived at the headquarters of a 24-hour volunteer emergency service in an old ghetto neighborhood church. Many anti-war groups had their headquarters in the same building.

Mrs. Nixon looked pale and startled, but chose to ignore placard-waving members of the Portland chapter of the Resistance, a national anti-war group.

Later she was beset by several members of a group calling itself 'Women's International Terrorist Conspiracy From Hell' (WITCH), who wore black witches' costumes and put a "hex" on her in a chorus:

"Mrs. Nixon: Millions die but you don't cry," they chanted. "This hex on you will all come true."

A huge banner held up by protesters also read: "How many people have you killed today? How many have you allowed to starve? $70 million a day spent in Vietnam—why?"

The demonstration came as a surprise and Mrs. Nixon's wary Secret Service guards cut short her visit. Later the President's wife said of the protesters that she did not "get a good look at them." But her daughter Julie, a bit perturbed, said she thought the pickets were "out of place."

In the evening, Mrs. Nixon and her party toured a tense black ghetto area that has produced a rash of fire bombings and disturbances in recent days. She ran into no trouble except for one black power flag hung on a press bus. But about an hour after she left, some rock throwing and one small fire produced arrests although nobody was hurt.

At the Albina Art Center in the ghetto area, she was taken on a tour by denim-clad Rufus Butler, a Negro who told her: "Art is our major concern. We find it's a wonderful way to get people together in a neutral way."

Pornography bills on Reagan's desk

SACRAMENTO (UPI)—Two landmark anti-pornography bills long sought by Gov. Ronald Reagan and Atty. Gen. Thomas Lynch were on the Governor's desk today awaiting his signature.

Reagan, in a statement issued by his office, said "I look forward to signing these extremely important measures, which are designed to keep pornography out of the hands of our children. The legislature is to be congratulated."

Reagan did not say when he will sign the bills. They will become law sometime in autumn, 90 days after the Legislature adjourns.

The Senate voted unanimous final passage to the two-bill package Monday. It's the first major change in California's Anti-Obscenity Law since 1961.

One bill establishes a separate standard for judging what is obscene for youths under 18.

The second incorporates a "pandering" concept so advertising methods can be used to determine if a publication legally is obscene.

The legislation's author was Sen. Robert J. Lagomarsino, R-Ojai.

"It's not going to do much about the content of pornography," the Senator told newsmen, "but it will help to prevent and control sales to kids."

He said the "pandering" bill will strike at "flagrant abuses of advertising, unsolicited mailings and public display of lewd material."

The legislation defines obscenity as "matter taken as a whole, the predominant appeal...is to prurient interest, i.e., a shameful or morbid interest in nudity, sex or excretion...goes beyond customary limits of candor...and is utterly without redeeming social importance."

The definition is the same for youths except added to the end are the words: "for minors." A jury would decide what was obscene for minors.

Under the pandering bill, a publication could be judged to be "utterly without redeeming social importance"—and therefore obscene—if "circumstances indicate the matter is commercially exploited by the defendant for sake of its prurient appeal."

Monday's Senate action involved acceptance of the Juvenile Bill as clarified by a joint conference committee. The committee defined a minor as anyone 17 or younger. The Senate also concurred in Assembly amendments to the pandering measure.

The Assembly already had completed its passage on the package.

U.S. divorce rate rises to second highest level

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The divorce rate in the United States rose in 1968 to the second highest level ever recorded, the National Center for Health Statistics said today. Early indications are that the figures for 1969 will be even higher.

An estimated 582,000 divorces and annulments were granted in 1968, or 59,000 more than were granted in 1967, the center reported. This brought the provisional 1968 rate to 2.9 per 1,000 population.

However, the provisional rate for the 12-month period ending in March, 1969 is even higher at 3.0 per 1,000 a divorce statistician said.

The highest divorce figures ever compiled since divorce reporting began in 1867 were in the post-war years 1945-47. The divorce rate shot up to 3.5 in 1945 and the total number of divorces recorded the following year was 610,000.

"This seems to be a worldwide phenomenon," the statistician said as he noted that United Nations statistics show divorce increasing in many other countries.

"One of the reasons is that many people born just after the war are getting married now, but I am sure that does not explain the whole increase," he said.

ELMIRA, N.Y. (UPI)—Friday the 13th could hardly prove as unlucky as Thursday the 12th for Douglas Miller.

Elmira police chief Bernard DeMember said he was awakened by noises and found the 17-year-old youth hiding in a shower in the bathroom of the chief's home. Miller was charged with burglary.

BERWICK-ON-TWEED, England (UPI)—Vandals destroyed a war memorial to U.S. airmen atop Cheviot Hill, police said today. The memorial, which included the propeller from an American B17 bomber, had been erected in 1968 in memorial to American fliers killed in World War II.

Dear Abby, Reader tell drug dangers

DEAR ABBY: Today is my wedding anniversary. I am spending it alone, as I have spent the last three such occasions. My husband was a handsome, intelligent young man. He came from a good religious family. Our marriage was thought to be one of the perfect matches of all time. Then my husband discovered marijuana.

At first it was a kick—something "fun" that we could do together. From marijuana we graduated to the amphetamines, first benzadrine—white crosses or "bennies"—then dexadrin, then methadrine. We took tranquilizers, mainly tuinal, to help us thru the bad moments when the high was wearing off. It finally got to the point where we were taking pills to sleep, pills to wake up, pills to keep us going during the day.

Then I became pregnant. It wasn't very long before my doctor became suspicious, and gave me a long lecture on the harm I was doing to myself and to my unborn child. He frightened me so badly that I quit the pills completely—not without a severe struggle, but I did quit. Unfortunately, my husband couldn't, or wouldn't quit, too. Since I was unwilling to "turn on" with him, he found friends who would. Our apartment soon became a gathering place for potheads, pillheads, acidusers, cocaine sniffers, and other assorted drug abusers.

I saw my husband become a stranger to me. Our marriage fell apart so rapidly that it is now difficult to remember that we were ever the happy young couple our friends congratulated. He couldn't stand the thought of having a "straight" wife. I couldn't tolerate his moods, his friends, his constant demands for money for more drugs. (Believe me, it is expensive, and it keeps getting more expensive.)

When he started to abuse our infant son, I realized that there was nothing I could do to help him. He didn't want my help, or anyone else's. On the advice of the minister, a psychiatrist and a lawyer, I left him and sued for divorce.

So, Abby, please don't ever stop telling parer's, young people, teachers, husbands and wives the dangers behind drugs. Some day I want my son

A Lompoc native daughter, Mrs. Anderson is the former Phyllis Campbell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Veril Campbell of the Santa Rita district. A Lompoc High School graduate, she is employed as office manager at Moore's Department Store.

Also a Lompoc native and graduate of Lompoc High School, her husband Ray is the son of Mrs. August Anderson, Rucker Road, and the late August Anderson. He is employed by the City of Lompoc. The couple was married June 9, 1944 in Lompoc First Baptist Church and have made their home here continually.

Coming for a surprise visit with the Andersons the day before the party occasion were Mr. and Mrs. Art Nelson and daughters, Jamie and Ande of El Paso, Texas. The men were Army buddies and had not seen each other for more than four years. The Texans stayed on for an extra week of vacation with the Andersons, returning home yesterday.

to be proud of his mother, and I want him to understand that his father would love him if he could, but he's sick.

In rereading this, I see I haven't touched upon the hell those years were. But they were hell, and don't ever let anyone tell you that drug abusers are happy. They are the most miserable, tormented people on God's earth. I know.

Abby, I can't expect you to print this letter. It's much too long. But it's all true, and I just had to say it because I know how you feel about young people. I am signing my real name and address, but please don't use it if you see fit to publish any part of my letter. My family and my husband's are fine people and I wouldn't want them hurt. Thanks for listening.

"BLUE GRASS"

DEAR BLUE GRASS: Your letter was long, but it's well worth the space, and I'm printing every word. Thanks for writing.

DEAR ABBY: My mother says it is not right for my boyfriend to see me in my sleeping pajamas, but she has no objections to him seeing me in my bathing suit, which covers a lot less.

I asked her what the difference was and she said to ask you, DEBBIE

DEAR DEBBIE: It is not a matter of how much is covered. Sleeping pajamas are appropriate attire for the bedroom, and therefore are inappropriate for entertaining your boyfriend. (That should cover everything.)

DEAR ABBY: This is for the party who said it bugged her to hear married couples call each other "MOM" and "DAD".

They could call each other worse names. You should hear what the couple next door to us call each other!

Rod & Gun With The 'Old Salt'

By M. C. COCKSHOTT

Salmon fishing out of Port San Luis was on the spotty side last week with fish beginning to get scarce.

One commercial fisherman claims some of the larger fish are about ready to spawn, judging by the condition of the roe. Fish are heading north to enter the rivers on the way to spawning grounds.

Commercial fishermen, working deep water, have done better than the average sport fisherman who does not get as deep. This is normal for this time of year. Things may be quiet for some time until the late-season run starts.

Rock fishing has been very good with lots of lings and cabezone. The Point Sal area still is the best for the larger fish. This is too long a trip, however, for the smaller private boats.

How the latest oil deposits on local beaches will affect fishing remains to be seen. It will really foul up surf fishermen, who may just as well put the outfits away until things clear. And that may well be a long time!

Possibly the oil situation could affect the taste of salmon. We remember when an oil line broke in San Luis Creek a few years ago. While it apparently did not harm the steelhead, the fish were unfit to eat because of a strong oil taste. They were so bad that even our cat turned down the oil-flavored steelhead!

Locally, trout fishing is fair to good with Lopez Lake still the best spot. The wind has been heavy in the afternoon. This water is still getting heavy angling pressure and fish are becoming scattered. Even with a boat fish are often hard to locate. So far we have not been able to determine if the planting by the Water Control Board, according to the agreement, has taken place. They were required to plant fish to take the place of those lost due to the closure of the stream by the dam.

Laguna Lake, always a cold, windy spot, has been on the spotty side. But fish are there.

Margarita Lake is fair to good. Weather conditions were such that there were not many anglers out during the past week.

Nacimiento Lake reports fishing is really beginning to get into stride for the summer months. Crappie are being taken in large quantities with a feather jig and white pork rind producing the best results. A live minnow fished about 12 feet from the bottom has also been very effective. Bass fishing is good off the rocky points for those anglers who are content to take the difficult fishing due to heavy boat traffic on the lake.

Cachuma has yielded some nice trout weighing up to three pounds for those fishing deeper water. Bass fishing is picking up with catfishing on the slow side.

Water conditions are changing in most areas of northern and central California, according to PG & E stream scouts. Most streams are currently reaching peak water flows. High water is the rule for waters south of the Merced River and some areas are beginning to offer good fishing. However, anyone figuring on taking a fishing trip to those areas, is advised to wait for more settled stream conditions.

Relatives of ours, who were over here from the Porterville area for the clamming tides, say that very good fishing is being found at Success Reservoir. Surface plugs are accounting for bass. Blue and white channel catfish are being caught in the shallow water. The average size for catfish is about three pounds — just a nice eating size.

Those anglers who head for the Sierras, especially Crowley Lake, should note that Crowley will close to trout fishing on July 31, a later than usual date. The late closure is because the lake was opened later this spring than normal. The lake will then open in the fall for a special fly fishing season from Sept. 15 through Oct. 31.

A release from the Dept. of Parks and Recreation states that the City of San Luis Obispo received a check for over eight thousand dollars for further development of recreation facilities at Laguna Lake. Included are picnic sites, restrooms, and fishing facilities on the 31-acre lake. This represents the second payment of an approved grant of $50,000 for the project. The money comes from the State Park Bond Act authorized by voters during the 1964 elections.

Pads' Kelly spells loss for Dodgers in debut

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—Rookie infielder Van Kelly could be excused if he pinched himself today to see if he had been dreaming or not when he delivered a game-winning double in the 13th inning Monday night that brought the San Diego Padres their first win ever over the Los Angeles Dodgers.

Kelly's hit was his first as a major leaguer, a status he achieved only three days ago when he and two other players were traded to the Padres for Tony Gonzalez.

The Dodgers and the Padres were tied 2-2 until Kelly's hit drove in Jose Arcia. The 3-2 win snapped a streak of four losses for the San Diego.

Kelly was with Richmond when he was traded by the Atlanta Braves to the Padres but even his tenure with the minor league team was brief. He finished six months of military duty May 10 and appeared in only 13 games for Richmond, batting .224.

The Padres played long ball against the Dodgers. Their other two runs came on homers by Ollie Brown in the first inning and Ed Spiezio in the ninth. It was the 10th for each.

As a result of Kelly's heroics, reliever Jack Baldschun, the fourth of five San Diego hurlers, picked up his sixth win against one loss as he worked three

Foreman to make pro ring debut

George Foreman, the colorful young man who won the Olympic heavyweight championship for the United States in the 1968 Games at Mexico City, will make his professional debut in a special six-round bout direct from Madison Square Garden on the large closed circuit TV screen at the Granada Theater on Monday June 23rd. The Foreman bout will open the show at 7 p.m. leading to the world heavyweight championship fight between Joe Frazier and Jerry Quarry.

scoreless innings during which he allowed only one hit.

Alvin McBean, who took over for Dodger starter Claude Osteen in the 10th, was charged with the loss although he gave up only two hits in the four innings he worked.

In the 13th inning, Ivan Murrell drew a leadoff walk and was forced by Arcia, who was attempting to sacrifice. Then Roberto Pena singled Arcia to second. With two out, Kelly doubled to right center field to drive in the winning run.

The Dodgers played catch-up twice in the game but couldn't do it a third time after Kelly's game-winning blow. In the fourth inning, Los Angeles scored an unearned run on Arcia's error after Wes Parker singled and Jim Lefebvre walked.

When the Padres went ahead in the top of the ninth on Spiezio's homer, the Dodgers again tied the score in the bottom of the inning.

Jim Lefebvre led off the Dodgers' ninth with a single, was sacrificed to second by Ted Sizemore and scored on Ken Boyer's pinch-single.

Dick Kelley started for the Padres and in 7 1-3 innings he gave up but three singles and the only run he allowed was unearned. The second Los Angeles run was off Frank Reberger.

The Padres lost twice to the Dodgers at San Diego and twice at Los Angeles before achieving their first win over the Dodgers.

Tonight the teams play a twilight double header. The probable pitchers were Joe Niekro, 2-3, and Gary Ross, 1-5, for San Diego against Bill Singer, 7-6, and Alan Foster, 1-4, for the Dodgers.

NYU, Tulsa leading ball series

OMAHA, Neb. (UPI)—Only two of the original eight clubs which came to Omaha for the 23rd annual NCAA College World Series could afford to lose as the double elimination tournament entered its fourth day.

Unbeaten after two rounds of the tourney were the New York University Violets and the Tulsa Golden Hurricane, N.Y.U. walloped Massachusetts, 9-2, and Tulsa got Texas, 4-2, in Monday night games.

That left Texas and Massachusetts with 1-1 records, the same as Arizona State's Sun Devils who did not play Monday.

Today's schedule had Mississippi matched against Texas at 1:30 p.m. CDT, Arizona State against Massachusetts at 5:30 and N.Y.U. against Tulsa at 8.

UCLA's Bruins were eliminated last weekend when they dropped two in a row, and the Salukis from Southern Illinois were blasted 8-1, by Mississippi Monday for their second defeat.

The winning clubs Monday each received superb pitching. Mississippi's Buddy Bowen fired a strong seven-hitter at the Salukis. Bowen struck out 14 and walked only two. The only Southern Illinois run came in the fourth inning when Bob Blakley got the first home run of the tournament with a long blast over the right field wall.

The big offensive gun for Mississippi was Whitey Adams who knocked in four runs with three hits to hike his RBI total for the year to 55. Ed McLarty got the last Mississippi run when he homered in the ninth.

Defending Open champ Trevino called shot, picked Moody

By MILTON RICHMAN
UPI Sports Writer
NEW YORK (UPI)—There's a guy who has been sidling up quietly to Orville Moody for more than 10 years now.

He hasn't been looking to sell him French post cards; he has been looking to sell Orville Moody only on himself.

The first time he spoke with him was back in 1958 when they were both in Japan.

"I never saw anybody play golf like you do," the guy said to Moody, then an Army GI. "If I were you, I'd be thinking of making a career of golf when I got out of service."

"No," Orville Moody replied. "I think I'm going to stay in the Army."

Time passed and life being the way it is, that same guy found himself playing two practice rounds with Moody last week in Houston before the U.S. Open. When the rounds were over, he said:

Roy Howell tosses 4-0, no-hit Babe Ruth win

Roy Howell struck out 15 and pitched a no-hitter to lead the Chemical Kids to a 4-0 win over the Miners in weekend Babe Ruth League baseball action.

Howell threw a near perfect game as only two runners reached base, both on errors. Kim Walton, Kent Endsley and Howell each collected two hits as the Kids blasted nine hits off losing pitcher Curt Wade.

V & J upset first place P.D. Pals with a convincing 10-4 victory. Mike McDougal slammed a bases-loaded home run and Nick Berry brought in three more with two hits to back winning hurler Robert Aguilar. Mike Bratz suffered his first loss of the season against three wins.

Fred Mitchell belted a three-run homer and pitched a four-hitter to pace Gustos to a 7-4 win over the Miners. Steve McNamee, Mike Woodfin and Mike Kluge had two hits apiece as the second-place Gustos gained a game on the P. D. Pals in the league standings. Sam Collier led the Miners efforts with two hits in three times to the plate.

The Chemical Kids won the second game of the week by defeating the Elks, 7-3. Once again Howell led the attack by collecting three hits in four at-bats. Kevin Drake struck out seven and had two hits to notch his first mound win of the year. Eddie Marshall led the Elks hitting, as he connected with his second home run of the season. In another game over the weekend, American Legion and the Diatoms fought to a 0-0 tie after nine innings when the contest was called because of darkness.

In the latest statistics released, Gusto's players, Mike Kluge and Mike Woodfin are the top hitters for league scorers. Kluge has smashed a league-leading total of 19 hits in 40 at-bats for a .465 average, while Woodfin has 13 hits in 28 trips to the plate for the same average. Aguilar, V & J's top hurler, is third in hitting with a .453 mark and is followed by McNamee of Gusto's at .429 and V & J' Jim Surch, who is sporting a .424 average.

Kluge is also the runs-batted-in leader with 18, and is second in home runs, with two. Teammate Fred Mitchell has 13 RBIs to rank second in that category. Joe Barthel, of the Diatoms, has garnered nine RBIs for third place, but leads in home runs with three. V & J's McDougal and the Elks' Marshall both have two homers to place second in that department.

Announcement of annual awards and the selections to the all-star teams will be made at Sunday night's banquet to be held at the Lompoc Elks Lodge. Tickets, priced at $1.50 for adults and 75 cents for children for the banquet are currently available at the Babe Ruth concession stand or at Gusto's Restaurant in the Lompoc Plaza Shopping Center. They will also be on sale at the door. The banquet will begin at 7 p.m.

McLain laughing at experts after 100th career win

By FRED DOWN

UPI Sports Writer

Denny McLain, the bluff, tough-talking 31-game winner of 1968, is taking as much pleasure in his 10-5 record this year as his 11-2 mark a year ago.

"What burns me is that so many guys, even in Detroit, said I might be a 5-10 pitcher at this stage of the season," said McLain, after pitching the Detroit Tigers to a 3-2 win over the New York Yankees Monday night. "I want to shove it down their throats."

McLain, who scored the 100th victory of his career, was touched for a first-inning run on two singles and a walk and a ninth-inning run on a double by Roy White and a single by Gene Michael.

The big blow in the Tigers' victory, which saddled Fritz Peterson with his seventh defeat, was a two-run homer by Al Kaline in the fourth inning.

The Minnesota Twins beat the California Angels, 8-2, as Rod Carew tied an American League record by stealing home for the sixth time in one season, the Chicago White Sox downed the Seattle Pilots, 8-3, the Boston Red Sox topped the Cleveland Indians, 8-5, and the Kansas City Royals scored a 12-inning victory, 3-2, after losing the first game to the Oakland Athletics, 7-5, in 13 innings.

Carew, who has been given the right to steal at will by Manager Billy Martin, executed consecutive double steals with Tony Oliva in the first inning as the Twins whiffed off to a 3-0 lead. Carew's six steals of home equal the AL record set by Ty Cobb of the Detroit Tigers in 1915 and equaled by Bob Roth of the Cleveland Indians in 1917. Carew is one short of the major league mark set by Pete Reiser of the Brooklyn Dodgers in 1946.

Jim Perry went the route to pick up his fifth victory of the season for the Twins.

Billy Wynne allowed eight hits and hit a solo-run single during a five-run third inning as the White Sox snapped a four-game losing streak. Luis Aparicio and Gail Hopkins each had two hits for the White Sox while Mike Hegan and Don Mincher had two each for the Pilots.

Reggie Smith hit a three-run homer in the seventh off Juan Pizarro and a solo homer in the ninth off Mike Paul to rally the Red Sox to their victory at Cleveland. Carl Yastrzemski hit his 18th homer for the Red Sox while Ken Harrelson drove in two runs for the Indians with a homer and a double.

Dick Green's two-run double enabled the Athletics to win their opener at Kansas City but the Royals split the doubleheader when Jim Roland hit Jackie Hernandez with a pitch with the bases filled in the 12th inning of the nightcap.

Shift fails to bother McCovey

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—Since Willie McCovey has a Ted Williams-style batting average for the San Francisco Giants this season, it figures that enemy teams will adopt Ted Williams-style shift against the big San Francisco Giants first baseman.

Cincinnati manager Dave Bristol took the most extreme measure yet Monday when he put shortstop Darrell Chaney in centerfield as a fourth outfielder. Third baseman Tony Perez played shortstop until there were two strikes on Willie and then moved just back of second base. That left left fielder Alex Johnson as the only man on the right side of the infield.

Against such a defense, McCovey grounded sharply to first baseman Lee May, who was playing almost on the line; drove one to rightfielder Bobby Tolan, who also caught it on the line; and finally singled up the middle to drive in a run.

But with two on, Perez was in normal position. Had the shift been in full swing, maybe Perez could have thrown McCovey out.

Neither McCovey or Giant manager Clyde King seemed worried or surprised by the shift.

McCovey, who is hitting .353 with 21 homers, also walked twice. That's the real problem for the Giants. They could use a heavy hitter behind Willie so pitchers would have to throw to him in the clutch. The Giants feel it would then not much matter where anybody plays when McCovey is batting.

Giants, Sox take minor league wins

The Giants and Red Sox each picked up two wins to highlight last week's American Minor division of the Lompoc Little League action.

A home run by David Welsh led the Giants to a 9-8 win over the Twins. Frederick Atmore was responsible for the Giants' other victory as he pitched them to a 12-7 verdict over the Yankees. Art Vargas threw a two-hitter in the Red Sox 3-1 victory over the Angels. Meanwhile the pitching of Wayne Kudirna and a double by Jimmy Chandler led the Red Sox past the Twins, 15-4.

The Angels recovered from a loss to the Red Sox to register a 20-9 win at the expense of the Optimistics. David Helm and Frank Condondure both doubled for the Angels. The Optimistics beat the Moose 9-7 earlier in the week. Pat Keogh led the winners with three RBIs, including a double. The Moose also lost a 12-4 decision to the Yankees as Mark Perez smashed a double to drive in two runs to pace the Yanks attack.

Elsewhere, Cincinnati downed San Francisco, 8-6, Atlanta swept Houston, 8-4 and 6-2, St. Louis blanked Montreal, 3-0 and San Diego shaded Los Angeles, 3-2 in 13 innings. New York and Philadelphia were not scheduled.

Pete Rose, Bobby Tolan and Alex Johnson drove in two runs each to pace the Reds over the Giants. Rose's RBI single and a two-run double by Tolan gave the Reds a 5-4 lead in the sixth. Johnson's eighth-inning triple accounted for what proved to be the winning runs.

Rico Carly and Tommie Aaron hit consecutive homers

Moore paces win by Orioles

Matt Moore's two hits, combined with the pitching of Justin Boyd, paced the Tigers to a 12-5 win over the Orioles in last week's Village Hills minor Little League action.

Boyd struck out six and scattered seven hits and Moore led the Tiger hitting attack. Gil Paulson led the losers with two hits, including a double. The Orioles executed a double play in the game when Boyd flied to Ralph Cummins, who threw out Moore at second base.

On Thursday the Red Sox defeated the Angels in a high-scoring contest, 16-12. Catcher Mike LaRiva hit two home runs and drove in four to preserve the win for the Red Sox. Andre Roberts collected a homer and a triple, while driving in five runs for the losers.

In Village Cap League Friday, the Indians, behind the pitching of Ricky Niedruegge, crushed the chiefs 10-2. Niedruegge fanned nine and walked two and was backed up by Joe Meneley and Dave Ernberg who each had three hits. The Chiefs' Biff Johnson had an impressive mound effort, despite losing, as he struck out nine and walked one while giving up five hits.

In another Friday Cap League game Jeff Foran clubbed three hits, including a home run, and John Garrison fanned 14 batters to lead the Rainiers past the Islanders, this time by a 6-1 score. Foran received credit for the mound win while Jeff Dalton, who relieved Foran in the fourth inning, got the save.

Pirates use home run medicine against Cubs

By JOE CARNICELLI
UPI Sports Writer

The Chicago Cubs, who've been living by the home run lately, died by it Monday night.

Rookie Al Oliver belted a two-run homer to spark a three-run eighth inning outburst that carried the Pittsburgh Pirates to a 9-8 victory over the Cubs.

Roberto Clemente opened the eighth with a triple off loser Phil Regan and scored the tying run on Willie Stargell's single. Jose Martinez ran for Stargell and moved to second on a sacrifice before Rich Nye replaced Regan. Oliver then cracked his sixth homer of the season.

The Cubs, however, didn't go down without a struggle. Ron Santo walked to open the inning. After two outs, singles by Al Spangler and pinch-hitter Jim Hickman produced one-run, but Steve Blass came on to strike out Rich Bladt to end the game.

Elsewhere, Cincinnati downed San Francisco, 8-6, Atlanta swept Houston, 8-4 and 6-2, St. Louis blanked Montreal, 3-0 and San Diego shaded Los Angeles, 3-2 in 13 innings. New York and Philadelphia were not scheduled.

Pete Rose, Bobby Tolan and Alex Johnson drove in two runs each to pace the Reds over the Giants. Rose's RBI single and a two-run double by Tolan gave the Reds a 5-4 lead in the sixth. Johnson's eighth-inning triple accounted for what proved to be the winning runs.

Rico Carly and Tommie Aaron hit consecutive homers

Mets nip Giants in V-H clash

Scoring two runs in the bottom half of the sixth inning, the Mets defeated the Giants, 2-1, in a Village Hills major Little League game last week.

Trailing 1-0, Terry Staffel walked and scored the tying run on a double by Mike Friend. George Hervey moved Friend to third with a single, and Friend scored when Scott Pryor reached first on an error. Darrel Garner and Pryor shared mound duties for the Mets, with the later picking up the win.

Charles Denson struck out 13 and gave up only two hits to pitch the Cardinals to an 8-0 win over the Dodgers on Saturday. Charles Simmons and James Trenor led the Cardinal at the plate with three hits apiece.

In Senior League games last week the Expos and Padres came out victors. Rick Ludholtz threw out ten batters and George Viltakis hit a double to pace the Expos to a 13-9 win over the Royals Thursday. John Meneley smacked four hits, including two triples, to lead a 19-hit attack, as the Padres ruined the Expos, 25-9.

Packers trip Dodgers in National action

To highlight an eight-run second inning in the Braves' second game victory over the Astros, Tony Gonzalez' two opposite field homers boosted Atlanta to victory in the opener and helped Phil Niekro become the major leagues' first 11-game winner.

Carly, who also had two doubles in the second game, hit a three-run homer in the second and Aaron followed with his first home run of the season. The eight runs were Atlanta's biggest outburst in three years.

Vada Pinson and Julian Javier homered and Nelson Briles struggled through a 10-hitter as the Cardinals blanked the Expos. Pinson hit his fourth homer of the season in the first inning and Javier hit his third—a two-run shot—after Phil Gagliano walked in the second.

Packers trip Dodgers in National action

Sparked by a second inning double play, the Packers went on to defeat the Dodgers, 7-2 in the National minor division of the Lompoc Little League, Saturday.

Darren Brown, Dan Reich, and Bryan Brown each had two hits to lead the Packers to victory. Richard Benesh collected two hits in a losing effort. The Villalabos boys, Pat and David, led the 7600's to a demolishing 14-2 victory over the Cardinals in another Saturday game. Pat collected two hits and pitched the win, while David had three hits in three appearances at the plate.

SHAVING STROKES

by Frank Beard

For the average golfer, the first tee is the scene of several things that will affect his game that day. Here he usually decides:

1. Whom his playing partner will be.
2. What, if anything, the stakes will be.
3. His plan of attack, if he has one.

Here, he goes to his bag, unzips a compartment and fumbles around until he finds his golf glove, a couple of balls and a handful of tees. Then he zips the bag, rises and extracts his driver.

Here also, he generally visits the ball washer, churns it a few times and fishes in his pockets for a tee.

All of this, of course, is quite normal. Maybe too normal. For some golfers, it has become so routine that he does it without thinking — which, of course, is a mistake.

No one who has ever heard the slosh of a ball washer or somebody tugging a club out of their bag while he's attempting to tee off will argue that the sounds are not irritating and distracting.

The proper etiquette for a foursome waiting to tee off is to stand or sit quietly until the preceding group has gone. Then, while the group walks to its drivers, the waiting foursome performs its necessary preliminaries.

When a member of your group addresses the ball, stand quietly. Pros are very sensitive about this. Motion distracts concentration almost as noise.

Happy Joe Frazier having fun training for title meeting with Quarry

By LEE MUELLER, NEA Sports Writer
KIAMESHA LAKE, N.Y. — (NEA)—Contrary to some persuasions, the only clouds surrounding Joe Frazier's world heavyweight championship are composed of dust.

"Nawp," he says, "I ain't going to sit on that ring for no picture." Frazier, wearing knee-length, sheen-green shorts, strides to ringside at his concord Hotel training camp and slaps the mat. Puffs of dust billow.

"No, man," he says, patting his bottom. "My pants ain't never supposed to be dusty back there."

Frazier grins. Training for his five-state title fight with Jerry Quarry June 23 is supposed to be serious business, but no one's told him. He has just completed a two-hour session of crap shooting with his sparring partners.

"I ain't got no time for no interview now," he had said earlier. "These guys got me losing (x-number) dollars."

So what if Jimmy Ellis is recognized as champ in 45 other states? Who cares if Cassius Clay-Muhammad Ali keeps calling himself the real king? What if he hasn't received the attention given other heavyweight champions? Who cares? Frazier doesn't, so he says.

"Why should it bother me?" he asks. "Why should anything bother me. I make it a habit that nothing bothers me."

"I'm getting the money and I'm just as much champ as Ellis. Anyways, I'm fighting everybody and he's not."

"Clay? He don't bother me. I'd love to fight him... soon as he comes back."

"As long as we're making money and I'm getting along with the old man (trainer Yancy Durham), everything is A-O.K."

So, Joe Frazier danced. While camp members eaned back in wood folding chairs and watched, the former Philadelphia meatcutter bobbed and weaved and jabbed in time with the wailing soul music that blasted from Joe's portable Motorola solid-state stereo.

"Go, man, go," hooted a jazz-oriented observer.

The stack of 45s clacked down to a red-labeled Capitol disc entitled, "If You Go, STAY GONE," by — for goodness' sakes — Joe Frazier.

"You don't think I can sing?" he asks, squinting down at a photographer. "Man, you listen!"

The record turned and Joe Frazier's singing voice slipped out of the twin speakers, smooth and professional. "If you go, BA-ah-bee... you HAVT ta STAY gone..."

"It's selling O.K.," Frazier says, "but I'm not satisfied with the publicity it's been getting."

Someone mentioned that Jerry Quarry also sings. Frazier rolled his eyeballs. "Quarry don't sing in his own voice," he says. "One minute he sounds like one of them Everly Brothers and the next he goes into Elvis Presley's bag."

Yancy Durham, a smiling, affable guy who plucked Frazier at age 17 from a Police Athletic League gym in Philadelphia seven years ago, says he isn't much bothered by clouds, either.

The fight with Ellis to settle once and for all the whole world's championship once almost happened, he said.

"Ellis was to get a quarter-million dollars. Joe had signed and Angelo Dundee had agreed by phone. The announcement of the fight was about to be made when Dundee called it off."

Durham shook his head. "Ellis should be the sorriest man in the world now. He'd had a quarter-million dollars. Now,

Scorpions top Tribe in Cap League play

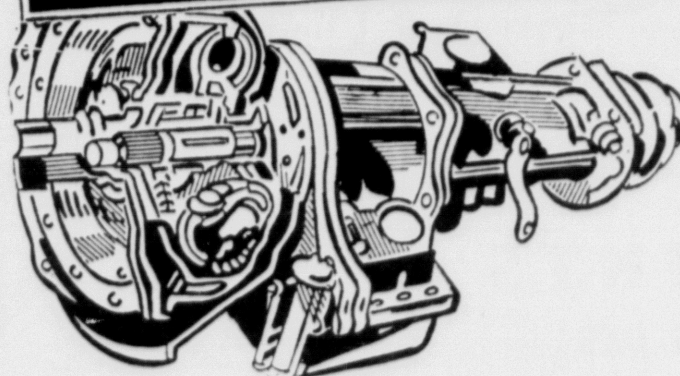

The league-leading Scorpions beat the Indians, 14-2, in last week's Lompoc Cap League action.

Lorenzo Armenta's home run combined with a mound performance by Bobby Barcelona helped the Scorpions maintain their hold on first place.

In another Saturday contest, the Pythians edged the Craftsman, 12-11. Wallace Grossi received credit for pitching the win, while Garry Ellison had three hits. Michael Russell and Jerry Valencia belted home runs as the Indians outlasted the Mets, 24-23, on Thursday.

Today's hand decided a match in the World Bridge Olympiad of 1960. The bidding was the same at both tables. At the first table the deuce of diamonds was opened.

This solved one of South's problems immediately — his possible diamond loser. All he needed to do was to avoid the loss of more than one spade trick. He wasn't worried about 3-2 breaks and could do nothing about four to the king-10 in the West hand or five spades in either hand. Therefore his only concern was with four spades in the East hand and just one in the West hand.

If that was the situation, the best play would be to enter dummy with a heart or club, lead a spade and finesse the jack. A repeated finesse in trumps would handle the case of a singleton three, five or seven in the West hand. Therefore South went to dummy with a heart and finessed the jack of spades. West made his singleton king. Later on East's 10 of trumps set the contract.

At the other table the four of clubs was led. South studied the hand carefully and decided that he had so many problems in other suits that he could not afford to take the best play in trumps.

After winning the club lead in his hand, he played his ace of spades. When the king dropped, he could afford to enter dummy with the jack of clubs, finesse against East's trump 10 and eventually discard his diamond queen on one of dummy's hearts.

Both declarers gave the hand the best percentage play based on the opening lead but the luck of duplicate produced a tremendous swing against the man who had received a diamond opening lead.

Killer smog hangs across nation

The Dirty Animal, Man: Air Pollution Hangs Like an Ominous Veil By JOSEPH L. MYLER UPI Senior Editor

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A nebulous veil hangs ominously over the earth. Man put it there. It is polluted air, loosely called smog.

Its presence proves that man has the technical capacity to suffocate himself, and other living things on this planet. There may be time to rend the veil, or at least to keep it from reaching the dimensions of disaster. In many places the veil still is imperceptible to the senses. In others, its presence often is painfully apparent.

When the eyes smart and water, when breathing is a throat-burning ordeal you know even if the sun is bright and the sky lovely—that smog is all around you.

Sustain Life The atmosphere is vast. For billions of years it possessed ability to keep itself fairly clean, clean enough to sustain life on earth.

But man has established himself as superior to nature, if only in a self-defeating sense. He can foul his environment faster than nature can clean it up.

Man has polluted his rivers and lakes and soil, and even the seas.

He has produced a crescendo of noise and clutter in his factories and offices—yes, and in his places of amusement—which not only impair efficiency but actually threaten health. He has strewn his highway and byways, his streams and his beaches with the ugly litter of civilization. What to do with solid waste has become a gigantic puzzle with ill fitting pieces.

The atmosphere which wraps the planet in a gaseous film no thicker in proportion than an apple skin has not escaped.

Science Meeting In April, 1968, J. George Harrar, president of the Rockefeller Foundation, addressed the annual meeting of the National Academy of Sciences. Outside azalea bushes were flaming all over Washington, robins were chirping, all seemed right with the world. But inside the academy Harrar was saying:

"And now it is our air envelope that is endangered. The outpouring of the byproducts of modern industrialization has reached dimensions with which we are at present unable to cope.

"Incinerators, industrial and power plants, automobiles, and many other elements combine to produce a complex pollution pattern.

"As all nations increasingly industrialize and as their cities burgeon, the possibility of eventual suffocation as the result of this pollution becomes a very real threat."

There appears to be no doubt that air pollution is a serious menace to public health. There appears to be no doubt that air pollution, unchecked, can change the world's climate, probably for the worse. If the polluted air doesn't choke us, it may trigger climatic events such as melting of the polar ice caps which would drown our greatest cities. Conversely it may hasten return of the Ice Age.

Still Time

But there still is, say some experts, time to prevent these calamities. How much time? The Committee on Pollution of the National Academy of Sciences has reported: "Air pollution is increasing faster than our population increases."

The world population is expected to double by 2000 A.D., 31 years hence.

Another academy group, the Committee on Atmospheric Sciences, estimated that "we have, at best, but one or two generations" in which to acquire understanding of the problem and do something about it.

Even before man the atmosphere was polluted. Volcanoes have thrown dust and gases into the air from time immemorial. Other natural pollutants have been dust from wind-eroded soil, salt particles from the sea, methane from marshes hydrogen sulfide from rotting organic matter radioactive materials from the earth's crust, pollen, spores, and airborne bacteria.

With these natural pollutants nature could cope. The atmosphere starts at the earth's surface and rises hundreds of miles until it fades into space. It weighs a stupendous 5,700 trillion tons.

About 70 per cent of this great ocean of air—thin though it is—exists in a region about six miles high. This is the troposphere where the winds blow and the rains and snows fall and the hurricanes and tornadoes roar.

Pollution Accumulates This is where the pollution, man-made or natural, tends to accumulate on the calm days. This is where nature, with wind and rain and snow does what it can to disperse or precipitate the pollutants which otherwise would clog it.

The atmosphere normally consists of about 78 per cent nitrogen, a relatively inert gas; 21 per cent oxygen, which keeps us alive; three-hundredths of 1 per cent carbon dioxide, the prime food of plants, and smaller amounts of other gases.

Now comes man with the fume and particles released by his fires and engines and the dusts blown from the deserts he has made and the pesticides he spreads to the four winds and the solid and liquid bits of waste he dumps into the air. He threatens not only to defeat the atmosphere's self-cleansing capacity but also to change drastically its fundamental composition.

A Garbage Dump

In this country we pour about 143 million tons of pollutants into the air in a single year. In thus using the atmosphere as a sort of garbage dump we unwittingly make co-conspirators of the weather and the sun.

Fog grabs man's noxious or toxic aerosols and other particulates and concentrates them in stifling pockets. It converts sulfur dioxide, a product of burning coal or oil, into sulfuric acid. Fog and sulfur oxides have figured in all the great air pollution disasters of the past.

On occasion the weather creates conditions that intensify the evils already present in the atmosphere. A layer of warm air slides above the cooler surface air. This is a "temperature inversion." It keeps the dirtiest air from rising and dispersing. It traps atmospheric poisons emitted by the works of man.

Smog As A Killer

Smog is a word coined centuries ago in Britain to describe the ugly mixture of smoke and fog that sooted the countryside for miles beyond the environs of coal-burning London.

As the word is used today, smog means something much more complex than a mere mixture of smoke and fog. It is the photochemical variety that plagues Los Angeles, for example, on 200 or more days a year. Los Angeles is hemmed by a bowl of mountains which interferes with air circulation and helps to maintain stagnant inversions.

One result has been that Los Angeles leads the nation in pioneering efforts to do something about air pollution. It has at least kept the problem from getting worse for the time being.

A Chronic Condition

What troubles Los Angeles and practically every other large city in the world is a chronic condition which, however unhealthy it may be, still lies somewhat this side of disaster.

It was the acute "episodes" that forced upon the world some awareness of what industrial man can do to the atmosphere and himself.

As the National Tuberculosis and Respiratory Disease Association said in a recent publication:

"It was probably the shock of the notorious air pollution disasters... that first stripped the smogstack of its glory... and turned what was a monument to progress into a gravestone for the dead."

Some Disasters

Muese River Valley, Belgium, Belgium was blanketed by a thick, cold fog in the first week of December, 1930. The heavily industrialized, 15 mile-long Meuse River Valley was trapped under an inversion layer of stagnant air. Pollutants accumulated. In a few days thousands became ill; 60 died.

Donora, Pa. An inversion covered a large part of northeastern United States in October, 1948. In the Monongahela River Valley lay Donora, a town of 14,000 crammed with industries. Nearly half of the inhabitants, 6,000, got sick, and 20 died.

London. For centuries Londoners had heated their homes with soft coal in fireplaces. London fogs were both notorious and commonplace. But in December 1952, there occurred a fog which surpassed others of the past. A five-day spell of stagnant air killed 4,000 persons.

New York. This city's pollution disasters might have gone unnoticed if public health scientists had not studied the death records. They concluded that New York had experienced air pollution "episodes" in 1953, 1962, 1963, and 1966. In 1963, they found, 405 persons died because of poisoned air.

The chief victims in each disaster were the elderly with ailments of the heart and lungs. Weather conditions helped the polluted air to do its deadly work.

The major pollutants are carbon monoxide, sulfur oxides, hydrocarbons, nitrogen oxides, particulate matter (everything from aerosols to soot), and what the official tables call "miscellaneous other."

"LIVESTOCK" AD SALT LAKE CITY (UPI)—A classified ad in Friday's Salt Lake Tribune advised the reader that "The Salt Lake County Sheriff's Posse is looking for a queen and two attendants to reign at the 15th annual RCA-approved Rodeo." The ad appeared under the heading "Livestock."

Farm mechanics training program set June 23

In response to a current demand in the local farm and dairy industry for trained farm tractor and equipment mechanics, Technical Trade Opportunity Center is instituting a year-long course for the thorough training of such technicians.

Farmer tax relief bill approved

The Senate has approved legislation authored by Senator Robert J. Lagomarsino (R - Ventura, Santa Barbara Counties) extending the senior citizens property tax relief law to certain needy elderly farmers.

The bill, SB 1019, corrects an inequity in the existing senior citizens tax relief which prohibits elderly farmers from claiming relief even though their net income for the year may have been zero.

Under existing law, elderly homeowners with incomes of less than $3,500 may receive partial or total relief from property taxes on their homes. However, a $10,000 gross income limit in the law works to discriminate against farmers who own their homes but have high gross receipts, regardless of their net income.

In one case cited by Senator Lagomarsino, a 68-year-old farmer whose net income was zero last year was not able to claim tax relief on his home, because his gross receipts exceeded $10,000, though he operated at a loss. "This bill will assure that the intention of the Legislature in providing relief for elderly homeowners is carried out," Lagomarsino said.

The bill now goes to the Assembly.

Television in Review

By RICK DU BROW
HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—Prejudiced questions about television:

Will somebody please tell me how the CBS-TV situation comedy, "The Queen and I," ever got on the air? I mean, if "Turn-On" was canceled after one performance, could anyone justify giving "The Queen and I" more than 15 minutes?

Isn't Raymond Burr, of NBC-TV's "Ironside," the most underrated major star on the home screen? The man is as solid an anchor for a television series as there is around.

Shouldn't somebody advise ABC-TV's Tom Jones, a potent singing performer, that he would be twice as effective all-around if he only took some lessons on how to deliver lines? Isn't it nice that Edward Mulhare and Hope Lange of "The Ghost and Mrs. Muir," canceled by NBC-TV, will be around against next season on ABC-TV?—because aren't they far and away the most attractive mature couple in all the regular video series?

Will someone please explain to me what has been so funny about "Get Smart" for the past couple of years?

Isn't Robert Conrad, of CBS-TV's "The Wild, Wild West," the most inconspicuous star on television?

And isn't it also obvious to everyone that CBS-TV's Glen Campbell will be on video for every bit as long as he wants to be, and that he is a tremendous television star in the making?

Weren't you surprised—along with the video industry—when NBC-TV's "Julia" series, the most talked-about and successful

Peace Corps exams offered June 21

Peace Corps placement test to be held on June 21. Lompoc area residents interested in putting their skills to use in developing nations around the world are invited to take the Peace Corps Placement Test at 1:30 p.m. on Saturday, June 21 at Room 37, basement, Main Post Office at Anacapa and Canon Perdida Streets in Santa Barbara.

The Peace Corps uses the placement test to determine how an applicant can best be utilized overseas. The test measures general aptitude and the ability to learn a language, not education or achievement. The test requires no preparation and is non-competitive; an applicant can neither pass nor fail.

Persons interested in serving with the Peace Corps must fill out an application, if they have not already done so, and present it to the tester before the test. Application forms are available from post offices or from the Peace Corps in Washington, D.C. 20525.

Fifteen thousand volunteers are currently serving in Asia, Africa, Latin America and the Pacific Islands, working with the people of those nations in self-help projects ranging from food production to health to education. More volunteers are needed for programs which will begin training soon.

Home loans increase by $2,500

President Nixon has signed into law the first direct veteran benefit measure passed by the Congress in his administration.

Among its principal provisions, PL 91-22, which became effective June 6, 1969, increases from $17,500 to $21,000 the maximum amount which the Veterans Administration may loan a veteran for a home.

Also raised from $10,000 to $12,500 is the amount which the VA may grant paraplegic veterans for specially adapted housing.

Another provision of the new law extends the specially adapted housing benefit to veterans who have either lost or lost use of one lower extremity and are suffering other service - connected neurological or orthopedic disability requiring regular use of a wheel chair.

Previously, only veterans who had lost or lost use of both lower extremities as the result of military service were eligible for VA "wheel chair home" grants.

Finally, the new law relaxes the first lien requirements for VA-guaranteed home loans to permit guaranty of homes for veterans where basic financing requires first lien security for monthly charges to home buyers for development of community and recreational facilities.

ful new show of this past season, was overlooked in last weekend's Emmy awards presentations?

And wasn't the Critics' Consensus, a poll of 18 television columnists overdoing it a bit when its third most honored show of the past year turned out to be ABC-TV's musical-comedy series, "That's Life"? It was good, all right, but it wasn't that good.

Ancient sea routes

Three days before Norwegian explorer Thor Heyerdahl and crew shoved off from Safi, Morocco, bound for America in a papyrus boat, an American adventurer named Bill Verity embarked on a similar voyage from Fenit, Ireland, with much less publicity.

Whereas Heyerdahl hopes to prove that ancient Egyptians could have visited the New World and left the technique of pyramid building with the Indians, Verity hopes to prove the old legend that says St. Brendan and his monks sailed from Ireland and reached America centuries before Columbus. Verity, who is sailing alone, left County Kerry on May 22 in a 20-foot boat he built himself and modeled on the one St. Brendan was said to have used. His goal was Fort Lauderdale, Fla., 4,500 miles away, which he hoped to reach in 75 to 90 days.

Like Heyerdahl, after a visit to Mexico and Central America, Verity got the idea of pre-Columbian Old World-New World cultural contacts from anthropological studies among the Indians of Florida and the Gulf of Mexico. His theory is that the Gulf Stream, carrying timbers to the west coast of Ireland, led the early monks to suspect that a land mass lay at the source of the current.

Both men, of course, assume that this ancient transatlantic traffic, if there was any, was all one way, from east to west. Who knows but what it might have been the other way around — that it was the Central American Indians who brought the pyramids to Egypt? And those floating timbers — what else might they have been but Ireland's first shillelaghs?

Courthouse report by Dick Praul

Post open

County supervisors and mental health officials are becoming more and more concerned about the inability to select a new mental health director.

Their anxiety increases as the days go by and it will not be long before the Lanterman-Petris-Short Mental Health Act goes into full operation in the county. This is scheduled for July 1, at the start of the 1969-70 fiscal year.

The state budget for mental health has now been revised and contains an item of $1,561,629 for the operation of the county's mental health services under the enlarged state program for the coming fiscal year.

The county's share of this is $123,582.

Both amounts have been revised upward in the past month since the governor's budget was first announced.

Acting Mental Health Director Dr. Joseph T. Nardo has informed the county supervisors of the revised figures, and supervisors have referred them to the administrative officer for presentation at July public hearings on the budget.

State reimbursement is now pegged at an excess of $1.1 million with patients fees expected to account for perhaps $325,000 or more.

Dr. Nardo, who also is the county's health director, was queried a few days ago as to progress in obtaining a new director. He indicated little or no progress, in a situation that has now become of grave concern to staffers of the various mental health clinics in the county along with the county officials closely aligned with the mental health program, and the County Mental Health Advisory Committee.

How can the county program be expanded adequately without a full-time director? How can it operate at all effectively under a stop-gap system? These are the questions being asked, and Administrative Officer Raymond D. Johnson, Dr. Nardo and supervisors have worked hard to get the program moving by having the long-vacant position filled.

There is little likelihood the position can be filled — some believe — without wrecking the county's salary structure. This for the reason that qualified applicants are few and many counties are seeking mental health directors.

Those who have been interviewed have shown they are in an enviable bargaining spot, and are taking advantage of it. The county will have to pay a qualified man $28,000 a year and possibly much more, if there are not fringe benefits of substance to go with the $28,000. Some applicants have sought to get a university appointment along with the county position; others have shown they would like to retain their independence and get private fees as well.

Staffing the department at lower levels is a continuing program.

Dr. Nardo also recently stated there is need to expand the present service to give medical evaluation and care for alcoholics. This is in addition to an enlarged projected outpatient clinic for mentally disturbed persons, many of whom are being returned to home areas from state institutions.

County officials will have to work fast if they can come up with a qualified new mental health director before July 1. Serious as it is, however, to lack a new director at this point, the problem is only one of numerous new crises being faced by the supervisors.

Letters to the editor

Dear Sir,

We wish to commend Mr. Stevens for his "Looking Glass" column of June 11, in which he expresses interest and concern for Welfare Reform. We agree with his points wholeheartedly. To take a better look into the "Looking Glass" your readers might be interested to know that in Lompoc and Santa Ynez Valley there are 279 Old Age Security recipients, 11 Blind Aid recipients, and 106 Disabled recipients, a total of 396, over 50 per cent of the total welfare population and none of which can be considered readily employable. We concede that many persons over 65 do work but the State legislature in writing the Old Age Security program, didn't say they absolutely had to. There are 335 families with missing or incapacitated fathers fall into the unemployable category, at least temporarily. Of the mothers involved in the other family cases, many have small infants, many lack adequate education and many who have both older children and better educations, have no car to either look for work or to get to the job once one is found. The remaining 45 families receiving assistance as of June 1, 1969, receive it due to the unemployment of the fathers. These are men whose unemployment benefits have been exhausted or who did not work in jobs covered by UIB. Some do have cars to get to work. All are looking for work and currently registered with the State Department of Employment even though the Work Incentive Program (WIN) is frozen at the state level.

Considering the current economic situation, we might question Mr. Stevens' estimate of "thousands" of jobs "in this county." Nevertheless we urge those who do have jobs to offer, to register them as rapidly as possible with the State Department of Employment, 712 East Chapel, Santa Maria, phone WA 5-8686, so these 45 men can have a chance at them.

We also urge an expression of interest in program reform be made to all state and federal legislative representatives as it is at these levels the programs are formulated and therefore reform can be effected.

Sincerely,
Beverly Hash
Welfare Employee and Tax Payer

Dear Sir:

A psychiatrist may help to discover the source of conflict to overcome troubles, but as long as he leaves God out of the picture, it is not the right kind of help.

As long as he treats guilt, but ignores sin and its remedy, it's confined to a psychological treatment. Unless a patient is advised to get help from God it's a barrier to the Christian gospel, anti-spiritual and dominated by wrong advice.

Mrs. Wilma Williams.

Stake threatened

MILAN, Italy. — This is the hard-core, powerhouse locale of the Italian Communist party, the largest in the Western world. It achieved 8.5 million votes in the last election — more than a quarter of the national ballots. And with the turn of events here it now threatens our whole stake in this NATO ally.

Anarchy is on the planning boards in Moscow. Probing Western Europe for the weakest decisive point since the fall of de Gaulle in France, the Kremlin has chosen Italy.

Tragically for us and for the Italian people, the convenient center-left coalition government that has ruled this country for seven years has become an ideal spawning - ground for the Reds' purposes. Since de Gaulle took France out of NATO our need for a stabilized Italy is greater than ever before.

Italy borders on France, Switzerland and Austria, with West Germany at Austria's rear. It fronts Red Yugoslavia. It flanks Yugoslavia and Red Albania on the Adriatic. It is the key to North Africa and to Greece. Classically, the Italians have called the Mediterranean "mare nostrum," "our sea." This country is the logistic center for our entire NATO naval complex in the Mediterranean. A stable Italy as the indispensable seat of American power at the crossroads of the Soviet-threatened Mediterranean is a strategic imperative. In the defense of Western Europe — as the Russians well know — there is no substitute for our needed Italy.

Yet the splits in the convenient center-left coalition and its leaders' relentless infighting put the government in the position of the Egyptian desert serpent that swallows itself. And this appetite for self-destruction, in turn, is hand-somely pressurized by Moscow through the Communist party — aided and abetted psychologically by the new presence off these shores of the Soviet Mediterranean Fleet.

The coalition becomes weaker and more paralyzed in terms of national action as the peoples' dissatisfaction grows.

This creates a vicious circle which whirls in response to the laws of cause and effect.

The industrial workers, the students and the peasants are dissatisfied. Italy's university population has doubled in the past 10 years. There are a half-million students now and they are waiting impatiently to see how Premier Mariano Rumor's university reform bill works out. They demand changes in the poor conditions and antiquated methods. The wage imbalances with the other Common Market countries require changes. The income chasm between the north and south requires changes. The immense bureaucracy, which has become literally a third force here, requires changes.

In short, Italy's entire national make-up is now shouting for a top-to-bottom overhaul.

Yet these changes must be made by a government which seems to the people so paralyzed that it cannot change anything.

Pending change, the current distraction is violence. The Italian bomb outrages we read about in our papers are, at close hand, senseless and patternless. One can find no single cause, and the police have found no unified culprits, nor have they claimed to.

Twice in the past few months, and now again, the country has heard rumors of a military take-over, as in Greece, against the threat of a Red star over Italy.

The Italian forzar made is a branch of the army. It is directly under the Ministry of Defense and has access to the arms and armor, most of which, incidentally, has been supplied by the United States. And the carabinieri have outposts in every Italian and Sicilian town and village. Locally based, it is a ready - made force for military intervention.

Clearly, this is a nation which, above all, now desires stable government. This can contain its own backlash, for so much anti - government resentment is sweeping the country that many thoughtful Italians wonder if a capitulation is not in the making.

Some look across the Adriatic and see this in the form of Tito's Red Yugoslavia. Others wonder if the answer may be in the model of the military junta in Greece. The ruling question behind the scenes here is whether this crisis-inflicted NATO ally will be pushed into jumping out of today's frying pan into either one of these types of totalitarian fires.

Library services

The nine-man County Library Advisory Committee will meet in Lompoc Library on June 26 to pave the way for submission of its annual request to the Board of Supervisors.

A per capita fee of $2 is allotted to each library zone on the basis of population. Lompoc would get the per capita during the 1969-70 fiscal year for an estimated 42,500 people which includes the city's 25,000-plus population and about half of those attributed to Vandenberg Air Force Base, and those living in Vandenberg Village and Mission Hills.

Inside library sources reveal that the committee feels it is almost too late for a successful revision of the basic rate above the $2 figure and instead will merely point out that costs of operating have risen about 10 per cent above what it cost to operate libraries when the $2 rate was set two years ago.

Despite this there have been rumors that the library committee would ask for an increase in the per capita rate to levels up to $2.50. Some months ago, Lompoc's Library Board talked of the $2.50 figure.

All the talk is really about the level of library service. There is word that libraries in Lompoc, Santa Maria and the City of Santa Barbara cannot operate at the present level of service on the $2 rate. Actually each of the three library systems gets only $1.90 of the $2 because 10 cents is withheld in a library building fund.

In Lompoc, some knowledgeable library interests have argued that the Valley's system should get much more money even under the $2 rate. They base their argument on the contention that 50-50 split of base connected personnel is unjust to the Lompoc area. They contend that as much as 65 per cent of base personnel live in the Lompoc Valley. A United Fund official actually sets the figure at 65 per cent and other estimates place it lower but still significantly above the 50-50. If the breakdown is in fact inaccurate by even as many as 1,000 persons, it would mean that the Lompoc Library was being shortchanged about $1,900 in terms of operating and book-buying capital.

There are however, serious arguments and no little political opposition to any readjustment of the population figure.

A fact sheet outlining costs of operating the Lompoc library for the 1969-70 fiscal year shows salaries of $80,024, up seven per cent above the current fiscal year; materials, supplies and services, $72,222, up 10.5.

But the whole library picture in Lompoc has been clouded by the fact that the city has a 15 cent city library tax. Coupled with this is an eight-cent county library tax, bringing to 23 cents the rate of library support by residents of the city. There has been for a long time the contention that city dwellers were really being taxed double in a sense.

More recently there has been the contention that a greater portion of the library users come from county areas than is being paid for by the county's per capita rate.

All these problems have their origins in the dim past when people at the hub of county government in Santa Barbara considered Lompoc a little outpost in the wilderness. As recent as the past year an important county government document came to Lompoc addressed: Santa Barbara County Library, Lompoc Branch. That surely was a Freudian slip on the part of some clerk or typist in Santa Barbara, but it maintains the atmosphere of inequality that has persisted for so long.

Critics of this kind of thinking say the proponents are just too sensitive but remember as regular as clock work, someone makes the suggestion that the county take over Lompoc Library and run it as a county facility. That would seem an unlikely possibility at this juncture because of the money the city has put into the new facility on East North Avenue, but it doesn't do any harm to "keep our powder dry."
